

Design Choices:

To upgrade it to higher fidelity, I added the function of giving the users the freedom to select and deselect the items in their shopping cart.

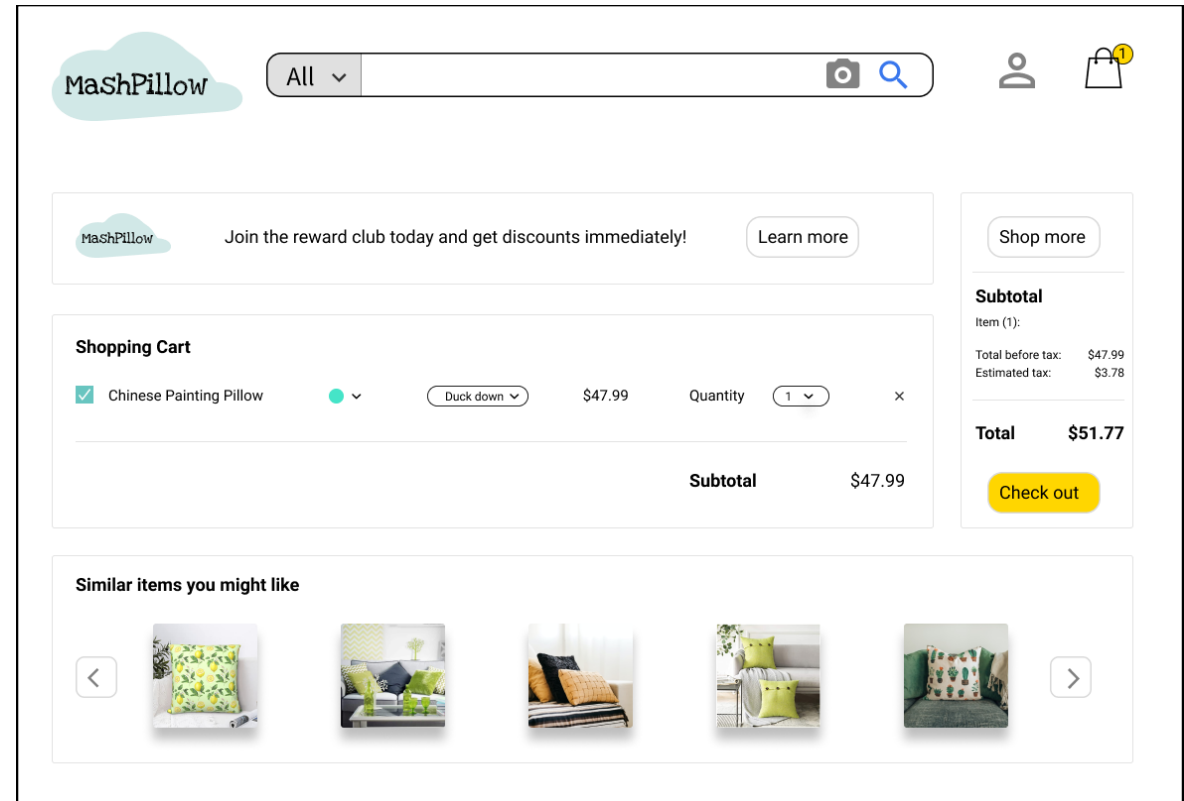

I also added the function of changing color and filling in the cart page in case users change their ideas in the last minute. Such design is to give the users the maximum flexibility and freedom.

In addition, I made the icon which indicates the item number in the shopping cart to be yellow to increase visual hierarchy.

For the similar items section, I added the “right” and “left” icon so that the users could browse through the items easier.

Another major decision is to make each section with white background with grey outline, so it is more consistent with the design on other pages.
